

Casement & Awning Windows

Enhance Any Design

Fashionably Functional

Casement windows by Mercury Excelum enhance any architectural design. The ability to combine multiple window styles allows you to create your ideal window arrangement. The same vinyl profiles are used to manufacture round top, picture, awning and special shaped windows assuring you a picture-perfect look.

Windows with Style

Mercury Excelum casement and awning windows are operated by a single handle and open off hinges either at the top or the side, depending on the style you choose:

Traditional – single panel window opens and closes from side hinges providing full window ventilation. These windows can be mulled 2, 3, 4 and 5-wide to create a unique look. This style opens to a full 90° for easy cleaning from inside your home.

Awning – hinged at the top and opens out at the bottom. Designed to circulate air with partial window ventilation allowing the window to be open during uncertain weather conditions while protecting your home interior.

Both casement styles feature:

- Multi-chambered frame and sash construction for ultimate energy efficiency.
- Insulating glass to reduce outside noise and deliver excellent thermal performance. Also available with LowE glass or other high-performance glazing options.
- Fusion-welded sash and frame corners to provide increased strength, durability, structural integrity and leak-free performance.
- .080" walls for added strength – even in the largest sizes.
- Advanced dual weatherstripping assures a long-lasting weather-tight seal.
- Special multi-point locking system and heavy-duty operators for easy operation, tight closing and extra security to last a lifetime.
- Options include stainless steel hardware for coastal applications.

High-Performance Glass

For higher energy efficiency, select a high-performance glass system for your new casement window such as LowE glass or other glazing options to create an Energy Star® qualified window. Your Mercury Excelum window dealer can assist you in selecting the features to make your windows meet your energy efficiency requirements.

Quality Built Into Every Window

Mercury Excelum windows are made from the highest quality vinyl. Virtually maintenance-free, our windows never need scraping or painting and they will not rot, chip or peel. Dirt rinses off with water or common household cleaners.

Since 1953, Mercury Excelum has manufactured windows in a state of the art facility in Connecticut. You can be confident that your casement window is of the highest quality and that a team of people stands behind every window you buy.
